HOMEWORK POLICY

This policy was drawn up as a result of whole staff collaboration, with the Board of Management and Parents' Association, to ensure that homework is a positive and productive experience which enhances the child's learning. The feedback from parental and pupil questionnaires was also used in drawing up the policy.

Why give homework?

- To re-inforce what the child learns during the day
- To provide a link between teacher and parent
- To develop a child's concentration skills and develop a work ethic
- Homework is meant to be achievable by a child, i.e. it provides an opportunity to practise work already done. It is normally prepared by the teacher in class. However, sometimes with senior classes, some homework is designed to challenge children's ability and provide opportunities for creativity
- Children are expected to do their homework to the best of their individual ability – no more, no less.

How often is homework given?

- Homework is given on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays but not on Fridays. There are two exceptions:
- If homework has been neglected during the week
- In senior classes some project work is undertaken at weekends
- Sometimes at the discretion of the class teacher or the principal, children are given "Homework off" as a treat or as acknowledgment of some special occasion
- Please note extra homework may be given during the week or at the weekend if a child has not done homework, made a suitable effort or presented untidy work.

What is the content of homework?

- Ideally homework will contain a balance between reading tasks, learning tasks and written tasks. This balance is not always possible and can vary considerably from day to day. However, it should be noted that homework time devoted to reading and learning is as important as written work
- Homework will regularly contain reading, spellings, tables, oral Irish, written work, pieces to be "learned by heart", drawing/colouring, collecting information/items and finishing work started in class
- Teachers shall endeavour to make homework as interesting as possible and will try to vary the content of homework from week to week

How much time for homework?

The following are guidelines for time spent at homework. Different children will complete the same homework in different lengths of time. Time spent will vary from day to day and also from the beginning to the end of the school year. It is important to remember that it is the quality and not the quantity of homework that matters. The following are general guidelines only:

Junior/Senior Infants	0 - 15 minutes
Rang 1 /Rang 2	15-25 minutes
Rang 3/Rang 4	25-35 minutes
Rang 5 /Rang 6	35/45 minutes

Homework is given from Monday to Thursday. Normally there is no homework at weekends or on a school day just before a public holiday. However, children in middle and senior classes may sometimes be required to work independently on projects at weekends.

Children with Special Education Needs

Homework is differentiated, when necessary, to ensure that children with special educational needs are accommodated. Children who attend classes with the Learning Support Teacher may get additional or alternative homework.

Special consideration is made to ensure that any such child would not be over-burdened with extra work. In such cases homework given by the class teacher may be reduced for an individual child to compensate homework given by the Learning Support Teacher.

How much help should parents give?

- Parents should try to help their children with homework by:
Providing them with a suitable place and time to do their homework.
To prevent interruptions or distractions, like T.V. or other children
- Children should do written homework themselves and parents should only help when the child has difficulty
- If a child has difficulty with homework, the parents should help the child to overcome the difficulty with further explanation or examples, but not by actually doing the homework for the child. In this case the parent should write a note to the teacher explaining the problem

How often should parents monitor homework?

- Parents should check and sign a child's homework journal every evening
- The pupil's journal is an important record of the child's homework. It is also a valuable means of communication between parents and teachers
- Ideally, all written messages to your child's teacher should be put in the homework journal (additional pages available at the end of the journal)
- Please check that your child records his/her homework neatly in the correct page and ticks each item of homework when completed

How often do teachers monitor homework?

- Ideally teachers like to check homework on a daily basis. The class teacher should sign each child's journal a few times per week.
- Some items of homework may be checked by children themselves under the direction of the teacher. This can be a useful part of the learning process for children.

When should parents communicate with the teachers about homework?

- When your child cannot do homework due to family circumstances
- When your child cannot do homework because she/he cannot understand some aspect
- If the time being spent at homework is often longer than the recommended amount of time.

When should homework be done?

- Each family situation is different - both parents working, child minders, etc. Ideally, homework should be done before any television is watched soon after school while your child is still fresh, however, some children need a break before starting homework
- Homework should never be left until morning time before school

Remember

If homework is a stressful experience between parent and child please feel free to contact the class teacher.

This policy was ratified by the Board of Management on 20th March 2025.
